New York City, N.Y., March 14, 2022 | Project Gallery V presents Splinters in the ongoing normal: the Spring Open Call Exhibition 2022 with artworks by 33 different artists. Spanning a range of artistic mediums, including painting, photography, video, and mixed-media installations, this online exhibition offers an expansive, raw, and nuanced look at many of the issues and affective states that characterize our present-day realities.

Many of these works reveal narratives that are at once personal and universal. Although they are inspired by unique experiences and perspectives, the exhibited works elicit notions of tenderness, loss, isolation and fragmentation – emotions that have increasingly textured our collective consciousness over the past two years. Yet, other works also speak to a sense of greater joy, wonder, and resilience, often deploying humor as a creative strategy to deal with the issues that they surface. Together, they explore a wide range of subjects, including gender identity, personhood, memory, and domestic life – as well as disability, climate change, media saturation, and systemic biases.

Entitled Splinters in the ongoing normal, this exhibition attends to the very subjectivities of our everyday experiences and lives. The exhibited works serve as a record of a time within history where precarity, anxiety, and profound instability have become the norm. Although the rhythms of everyday life continue to go on, the works attest to the huge shifts that have occurred within our interior selves as a result of broader socio-political changes that most of us do not control. Plumbing the depths of these changes, the exhibition brings together a poignant, complex portrait of life during these interesting times.
